

DIAGNOSTIC TEST TRACKING

Diagnostic and antibody testing are the most effective tools to uncover COVID-19 cases and mitigate the threat of infectious disease. But gaining access to a limited supply of testing, as well as reviewing test results while complying with all federal and state privacy rules and regulations, can be a daunting challenge, with one wrong move exposing you to costly litigation and fines.

Testing can be used to help protect your campus—and it may be required by your offsite externship and clinical rotation partners. However, partners may have their own requirements when it comes to testing, including different testing dates, frequency, and more. Managing these requirements across an entire campus can easily become a logistical nightmare.

You're not alone. CastleBranch can help.
